OJT OVERVIEW -

The main objective of on-the-job training (OJT) is to use the existing people, tools, and environment to train the new employees to do their jobs.

On-the-job training programs (OJT) strengthen skills in preparation for the job role. For fresher, OJT programs are a ticket to gaining work experience.

On-the-job training methods include job rotation, coaching, job instruction or training through step-by-step and committee assignments.

Training can be viewed as a process comprised of five related stages or activities: assessment, motivation, design, delivery, and evaluation.

Through hands-on teaching and coaching, employees learn the practical skills and knowledge they need to perform their job. The man takes place in a normal work environment rather than outside the workplace in a classroom or virtual setting.

Hiring the right, qualified, person for a job is just the beginning of setting them up for success at work. They're going to have to learn hands-on the ins and outs of your company and its unique practices and processes.

And jobs today rarely stay the same. There's learning what you need to know when you start the job, and there's learning all the ways other people have figured out to do the job better. The tools or systems you use often change, and you have to learn how to do the job in a new way.

For employees and employers, on-the-job training is one of the best ways to deliver this type of specific and continuous learning.

ESSENTIAL INFORMATION TO STUDENTS FOR GOVT. JOB PORTALS & SCHOLARSHIPS

1. SCHOLARSHIP PORTAL :

▽ KANYASHREE:

www.wbkanyashree.gov.in KanyashreePrakalpa seeks to improve the status and wellbeing of girls, specifically those from socio-economically disadvantaged families through Conditional Cash Transfers by:

Incentivizing them to continue in education for a longer period of time, and complete secondary or higher secondary education, or equivalent in technical or vocational streams, thereby giving them a better footing in both the economic and social spheres.

Disincentivising marriage till at least the age of 18, the legal age of marriage, thereby reducing the risks of early pregnancies, associated risks of maternal and child mortality, and other debilitating health conditions, including those of malnutrition.

It was also decided that the Scheme should confer more than just monetary support; it should be a means of financial inclusion and a tool of empowerment for adolescent girls. The scheme benefits are therefore paid directly to bank accounts in the girl's names, leaving the decision of utilization of the money in their hands.

To reinforce the positive impact of increased education and delayed marriages, the scheme also works to enhance the social power and self-esteem of girls through a targeted behaviour change communication strategy. The communication strategy not only builds awareness of the scheme, but includes adolescent-friendly approaches like events, competitions and Kanyashree clubs, and the endorsement of strong women figures as role models to promote social and psychological empowerment.

As more and more girls remain in school, it is envisaged that they will use the opportunity to gain skills and knowledge that will help them become economically independent. Even if girls do get married soon after they turn 18, it is expected that their education and enhanced social and emotional development will give them a better foundation for their adult lives. And over time, as entire generations of women enter marriages only after they have some degree of economic independence, it is expected that the practice of child marriage is completely eradicated, and women will attain their right to health, education and socio-economic equality.
